LITTLE BEAVER LAUNCHES NEW WEB SITE

(Livingston, TX - August 23, 2004) Little Beaver Inc., a leading manufacturer of earth drills and augers, recently announced the launch of their new website at www.littlebeaver.com. This improved website features user-friendly navigation tools in a new attractively designed page format. Pages include thorough information covering every product, the company background, resources, frequently asked questions, product videos, and Little Beaver contacts. A total of seven product videos are available on the site.

This new site provides immediate information to Little Beaver's expanding worldwide market. "We are very excited at the opportunities this new site offers to our growing customer base," stated Joe Haynes, President of Little Beaver.

Located in Livingston, Texas, Little Beaver manufactures one-man earth drills featuring the patented torque tube, augers, and the Kwik-Trench line of earth saws. For more information, call 800-227-7515 or visit their website at www.littlebeaver.com.
